Works by Donna Henderson and Sara Burant with introductions by host Carter McKenzie

These featured Oregon poets offer works of deep attention to the natural world and to our place in it. Whether in praise of the forces of nature or in elegy from environmental devastation, their poems rise out of protest against indifference to and appropriation of our resources and communities. These are poems rooted in fierce gratitude for what sustains us all.

Donna Henderson is the author of The Eddy Fence (Airlie Press, 2009) and 3 collections of poetry and is an Oregon Book Award finalist. Donna is also a founding member and editor of Airlie Press.

Sara Burant's chapbook, Verge (Finishing Line Press) was published in 2012. Originally from Wisconsin, she has lived in Eugene for 30 years.
