

Panel: Not Just Climate, But A Just Climate!

Ana Molina, Beyond Toxics' Environmental Justice Campaign Liaison, joins Kelsey Juliana to discuss climate justice issues and the Juliana v. US lawsuit.

Film Showing: Black Snake Killaz

Sandra Clark from 350 Eugene spoke at the showing of "Black Snake Killaz," a powerful documentary about the movement to stop the Dakota Access Pipeline.

Breath of Fresh Air: An environmental justice showcase

Poet and performance artist Yolanda Gomez engaged the audience with powerful readings from her work.

Local poet Marcus Holloway emceed a rare lineup of progressive music, political speakers and poets.

Foreground: Jelani Imamu and Marcus Holloway of N/A - Not Applicable. Not pictured: Ratie Dangarembwa.

Northwest Reggae-Hip Hop band Chiefed of the Siletz Tribe rocked Kesey Square in downtown Eugene and kept the enthusiastic crowd (right) dancing.

